

In-text citation: ^{sentence}

After each (or group of sentences that came from the same source) include an "in-text citation" that tells the reader where to look in your list of references for more info.

In order of priority, here is what your in-text citations should look like:

(author's last name year of publication)  leave out if not available

Bregar eats bugs (Goff 1999).

("web page title" year of publication)

Butterflies are vicious. They kill hundreds of elephants each day ("Willamette Valley Prairies" 2002).

TODAY:

Replace URL's in background info with in-text citations.

E-mail your completed proposal to Bregar —subject: "per 7 your names proposal FD"